Hear what the Participants and Exhibitors said about ALMC 2018:

I have gained a lot of market intelligence from different sessions. The conference offers a great opportunity for me to understand Hong Kong's logistics and maritime advantages, and how to harness its professional services to boost the export business of Thailand. This helps us plan future development strategies.

Ms Ghanyapad Tantipatpong
Chairman, Thai National Shippers' Council (Thailand)

The ALMC is a must-go event with a series of interesting forums. I am now in touch with two Hong Kong exhibitors at the conference to explore cooperation in data analysis and business integration services. I really like this conference and would like to participate again.

Mr John Justus
Chief Technologist, Tranzlogix (India)

We've been in touch with at least 10 companies from Hong Kong, Mainland China, Japan and Europe – engaged in various shipping, logistics and software development businesses – to study possible cooperation. We find the conference to be a useful platform to seek out partners for expansion.

Ms Joe Kyung-Eun
Manager, International Business Department,
Busan Port Authority (Korea)

ALMC is one of the best conferences I have ever attended. It offers an excellent opportunity to network with different industry players, especially shipping-related companies.

Mr Prosper Edewhosa
Managing Director/CEO,
The Havilah Maritime Services (Nigeria)

The ALMC serves as a good platform to network with people and establish connections. It's a successful conference that helps us strengthen relationships with existing customers as well as find new partners.

Mr Michael Inman
Manager, Business Development,
Port of Prince Rupert (Canada)

The Asian Logistics and Maritime Conference (ALMC) brings together industry leaders and cargo owners to exchange on the latest market intelligence and explore opportunities in logistics, air cargo, supply-chain management and maritime industries in the region, as well as building connections with influential industry professionals.
